

If you are concerned about the development or behavior of your child

You are concerned about the development or behaviour of your child up to 7 years, but you do not know who can help you with this issue. Or is it less clear? Does your feeling tell you that something is wrong with your child, but you do not know exactly what? Do not wait and contact Integral Early Care (Integrale Vroeghulp)

What does Integral Early Care do?

In Integral Early Care, organisations work together in the field of child development. They help parents who are concerned about the development and/or behaviour of their child up to the age of 7 years. Integral Early Care looks at what might be going on with the child. And gives advice to parents about the most appropriate Care or support

Registering by Integral Early Care and then?

You do not need a referral. The assistance of Integral Early Care is free of charge.

- You register by phone. This can be done through the health centre or the district team in your municipality. You can also call Integral Early Care directly. The telephone number is at the bottom of this leaflet.
- A member of staff from Integral Early Care will make an appointment with you at your home or at the office. You will discuss your request together. The staff member remains your contact person.
- With your permission, your contact person will ask information from, for example, day care centres, schools, paediatricians or the Municipal Health Service (GGD). This information is needed to get a correct impression of your child.
- A team of experts will discuss your request and your child’s situation. Your contact person is always present at this meeting. Your contact person may also ask you to attend the meeting. The experts are a (paediatric) doctor, a behavioural scientist, a speech therapist, a physiotherapist and an education expert. They will give you advice on the most suitable help or care for your child.
- You and your contact person examine and argue about the advice and what are subsequent steps together. You make a plan together.
- You and your contact person carry out the plan. Your child gets the needed help or care.
- The support provided by Integral Early Care stops when your request has been accomplished. Or when another organization takes support on its own.
